

Regulations on Temporary Protected Status for people from several countries are in flux, pending the new administration's actions on TPS- it is yet undetermined how extensive the changes to this program by the new administration will be.